Los Angeles, CA (PRWEB) April 13, 2015 -- Today, Larry Jordan & Associates, Inc., released new and updated video training to support the latest release of Apple® Final Cut Pro X® v.10.2. The highly-regarded producer, director, editor and trainer Larry Jordan has updated all his Final Cut Pro X training with more than 70 new training videos, which are available now on his website: LarryJordan.com.

The latest version of Apple Final Cut Pro X features significant enhancements in titles, masking, color correction, effects, media management and importing.

Jordan's training updates cover all aspects of Final Cut Pro X v10.2. 50% of the videos in Final Cut Pro X: Effects are new with this release, while 25% of the videos in Final Cut Pro X: Workflow and Editing are new.

“It was important to me to do more than simply cover the new features in the software,” said Larry Jordan, President of Larry Jordan & Associates, Inc. “So I looked at our most popular articles on our website and questions from past training and added new materials that answers questions viewers have been asking since my last training was released.”

New training that goes beyond the new features includes:

- * Working with high-resolution media
- * New effects techniques using existing software features
- * Totally rewritten chapters on color correction, media management and importing
- * As well as extensive coverage of all the new features in the software.

“Larry's training is legendary for his ability to explain complex technical subjects in ways that are easy for editors to understand,” said James Stevens, Director of Marketing for Larry Jordan & Associates, Inc. “Larry's personality and communication skills, deep technical knowledge, and decades of experience in the industry combine to create training that is used and respected around the world.”
